

Please keep title II protections for ISPs. Consumers desperately need protection, especially when many of them live in 1-2 service provider areas, with little or no competition.

As a scientist, keeping net neutrality is essential to the dissemination of information amongst research teams.